

The influence of tourism on labor markets and development
A global perspective

Real Colegio Complutense, Harvard University
<http://www.realcolegiocomplutense.harvard.edu/>
26 Trowbridge St., Cambridge, MA 02138
21st & 22nd November 2003

Workshop Objective

The idea of this workshop is to bring together academics and professionals associated with Harvard University and Spanish universities to deal with the issue of the effects of tourism trade on labor markets in the European, Asian and American zones, beginning with Spain, Korea, the Caribbean, Bermuda, Peru and New Zealand.

The following broad themes will be addressed at the workshop:

- 1. Session 1: Tourism effects on labour markets
- 2. Session 2: Demand and consumption of tourism services
- 3. Session 3: Tourism and development

Workshop Organizers

Principal Organizer

Professor L. Julio Tascón Fernández (Universidad de Oviedo)

Organising Committee

Professor Alfonso Ojeda Marín (Universidad Complutense de Madrid)

Professor Ignacio Rodríguez del Bosque (Universidad de Cantabria)

Professor Alan Wall (Universidad de Oviedo)

Sponsors

- Real Colegio Complutense, Harvard University
- Consejería de Economía, Principado de Asturias, Spain
- Fundación Universidad de Oviedo, Spain
- World Tourism Organization